London-based interior designer, educator, and writer Ilse Crawford designs for systemic well-being through close consideration of materials and lived experiences. Edelman's design studio was curious to engage Crawford's holistic approach and invited her to refresh the color palettes for three quintessential leathers: Helm, Oath, and Poem. Through meticulous study of each leather's specific properties and potential applications, Crawford developed new palettes to reflect their unique identities. From the subtle pebble grain of Helm to the supple hand of Oath to the expressive surface of Poem, the trio celebrates leather as a tactile, responsive, and inherently resilient natural material.

Edelman leathers are developed with boutique tanneries across Europe with hides sourced in Italy, Germany, and Switzerland to ensure adherence to humane veterinary practices and premium raw materials.
